The Charleston County Bar Association holds its annual meeting and installation of officers

CHARLESTON, SC – Mark Joye of Joye Law Firm was installed as the 2024-2025 Charleston County Bar Association (CCBA) president on Feb. 22, along with three other officers and ten executive committee members. The installation ceremony was held at the CCBA's annual meeting at the Francis Marion Hotel.

The size of the CCBA has grown tremendously over the past several years, so during his tenure as president, Joye plans to support the reconnection and professional growth of CCBA members through in-person social events, charitable projects, and continuing education seminars. "It is challenging to reach out to and engage all our members, but we certainly try to do just that," said Joye. "We will upgrade our Instagram account to better communicate with our members and show others what we have done to improve our legal community and beyond."

Joye also plans to connect with younger and older attorneys with targeted events. "We want to engage our newer attorneys and those who have practiced more than 50 years. Both groups are important members of our organization, and we want to show them that we appreciate them and are here to support them," said Joye.

The incoming Charleston County Bar Association officers and members of the executive committee for 2024-2025 are:
